

Dairy Beverages: New Trends and Concepts

Guest Editor:

Prof. Dr. Marta H. Henriques

Department of Food Science and Technology, Agriculture School,
Polytechnic Institute of Coimbra,
Coimbra, Portugal

Deadline for manuscript
submissions:

closed (31 March 2018)

Message from the Guest Editor

Health, nutrition, new taste options and convenience are hot industry trends right now. Dairy drinks are ideal for adding value in terms of nutrition, wellness and functional additives. The potential for innovation in dairy beverages category is real, with new product development offering opportunities for meal substitution and on-the-go consumption. The challenge is to establish the systems that can meet the demand for healthy dairy drinks, while delivering the high quality, safety, stability during storage and transportation, texture and mouthfeel that consumers expect. This Special Issue comprises a wide range of articles serving to highlight new existing work conducted in the field of dairy beverages.

