Message from the Guest Editors

The intersection of nanotechnology and biotechnology has opened up a wealth of possibilities in various fields, including medicine, agriculture, environmental science, and materials science. The nano–bio interface, where nanoscale materials and biological systems meet, has become a focal point of research and innovation. This Special Issue of Bioengineering aims to bring together cutting-edge research at the forefront of this exciting and dynamic field.

We invite researchers, scientists, and experts from across the globe to contribute original research articles, reviews, and perspectives that explore the nano–bio interface. Topics of interest for this Special Issue include but are not limited to:

Nanoparticles for Drug Delivery;

Biomaterials and Tissue Engineering;

Nanotechnology in Diagnostics;

Nanotoxicology and Safety Assessment;

Biological Interactions at the Nanoscale: Understanding the interactions between nanomaterials and biological systems, including cell–nanoparticle interactions and protein adsorption.
