Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue of Genealogy invites essays on the topic of “Transnationalism and Genealogy.” Transnationalism is classically defined by anthropologists Basch, Glick Schiller, and Blanc-Szanton (1994, p. 7) as “the processes by which immigrants forge and sustain multi-stranded social relations that link together their societies of origin and settlement.” The goal of this issue is to examine the relationship between transnationalism and genealogy. The impact of transnationalism on family relations, family history, and family lineage across the globe is at the center of this issue. The editorial team hopes to attract contributions from a wide spectrum of disciplines or sub-disciplines with different theoretical perspectives and various methodological orientations that can broaden and strengthen the scope and depth of genealogical studies.

Message from the Editorial Board

Genealogy is a scholarly journal that provides a venue for academic, cutting-edge contributions to the interdisciplinary field of genealogy studies. We welcome contributions that examine genealogies of family lineage, use genealogical considerations and methods in examining other historical processes (including migration histories, personal, social, and national identities, and social institutions) or study the construction of genealogical narratives. The journal is also interested in biographical studies and their contribution to the understanding of broader social and historical phenomena.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, ESCI (Web of Science), and many other databases.

Rapid Publication: manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 24.9 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 4.9 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2023).
