Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

The field of cardiovascular medicine has broadened as technologies evolve. More importantly, clinically relevant discoveries have grown exponentially with genomics, improvements in stem cells, inter-organ and systemic approaches, and cardiotoxicity side-effects of cancer drugs and a variety of other therapeutics. It is becoming increasingly apparent that the heart is inexorably linked to multiple human disease conditions. As such, the molecular underpinnings of non-cardiac processes have emerged with new relevancy to cardiac disease. Contributions to this Special Issue will provide insights into novel mechanisms of action that contribute broadly to cardiomyopathies of multiple etiologies and suggest therapeutic interventions for meeting new challenges in heart health.

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.
High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.
Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry & Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Inorganic Chemistry)
