Message from the Guest Editor

The aim of this Special Issue is to cover all new and emerging aspects of the diagnosis and treatment of laryngopharyngeal reflux (LPR) from the last 10 years, as well as to revisit older and more established ones. Despite the huge amount of literature, the diagnosis and management of LPR remains controversial.

Examples of topics include, but are not limited to:

- Diagnostic algorithms for LPR;
- Empirical treatment of LPR: Is it still a valid therapeutic option?;
- Pediatric LPR: What's new?;
- Vocal process granulomas: A reflux-related problem or a surgical one?;
- Reflux questionnaires: A search for better and easier to use approach;
- Beyond proton pump inhibitors (PPI) treatment for LPR.

Please submit your paper for consideration for this Special Issue before the deadline. An article processing charge will apply upon acceptance of your paper.
