Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue comprises selected papers related to medicinal chemistry in biological challenges. The Special Issue is based on the conference Chemical Sciences in Biological Challenges. This conference focuses on life and health sciences with bio- and natural sciences. In this Special Issue, medicinal chemistry meets the challenges of biological environments from the perspective of drug development, environmental sciences, and the circular economy. The topics may concern any technique or field of science within the wider field of Pharmaceuticals.
