- Engineering biochar–bioenergy processes to raise benefits in high-value production systems;
- Development of material flow analysis models to evaluate energy and resource recovery from using organic waste in biochar systems;
- Properties of biochar from novel sources and different production conditions;
- Synergetic/antagonistic effects of biochar as an additive in bio-processes;
- Novel trends and developments in biochar technologies
- Development of life cycle assessment models to quantify the sustainability (environmental, exergetic, economic, and social) benefits that the adoption of the biochar could deliver;
- Designing sustainable biochar supply chains

Processes (ISSN 2227-9717) provides an advanced forum for process/system-related research in chemistry, biology, material, energy, environment, food, pharmaceutical, manufacturing and allied engineering fields. The journal publishes regular research papers, communications, letters, short notes and reviews. Our aim is to encourage researchers to publish their experimental, theoretical and computational results in as much detail as necessary. There is no restriction on paper length or number of figures and tables.
