This Special Issue on “Recent Advances in Environmental pollution control and Environmental Impact Assessment” will collect high-quality research addressing challenges in the broad area of environmental pollution and assessing the impact of xenobiotics on different elements of the environment. Topics include but are not limited to the following:

- Environmental fate studies including biodegradation and bioaccumulation of contaminants;
- Distribution studies of pollutants in different environmental media;
- Remediation (including phytoremediation) employing novel strategies, findings, or interpretations;
- Adverse effects of pollutants in environmental, aquatic and terrestrial, organisms;
- Soil and water chemistry focused on interaction, degradation and speciation aspects of environmental contaminants;
- Environmental impact of agriculture;

Processes (ISSN 2227-9717) provides an advanced forum for process/system-related research in chemistry, biology, material, energy, environment, food, pharmaceutical, manufacturing and allied engineering fields. The journal publishes regular research papers, communications, letters, short notes and reviews. Our aim is to encourage researchers to publish their experimental, theoretical and computational results in as much detail as necessary. There is no restriction on paper length or number of figures and tables.
