Message from the Guest Editors

Next generation TV and movie services aim to provide a more realistic experience to the users by adding multiple sensorial effects, through five-sense stimulus (i.e., taste, sight, touch, smell, and hearing). Especially in a home environment, where appliances and devices can be automatically controlled remotely from any Internet-connected device, the additional effects can be generated by interconnecting various customary devices acting as smart objects interconnected to the image renderer using the Internet of Things (IoT) paradigm.

This issue will continue to provide a comprehensive overview of the current research and development efforts on the topic of architectures, models and methods for multi-sensorial media applications through the new perspectives opened by the IoT era.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Sensors is a leading journal devoted to fast publication of the latest achievements of technological developments and scientific research in the huge area of physical, chemical and biochemical sensors, including remote sensing and sensor networks. Both experimental and theoretical papers are published, including all aspects of sensor design, technology, proof of concept and application. Sensors organizes Special Issues devoted to specific sensing areas and applications each year.

Author Benefits

Open Access : free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Ei Compendex, Inspec, Astrophysics Data System, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q2 (Instruments & Instrumentation) / CiteScore - Q1 (Instrumentation)
