Message from the Guest Editors

The goal of this Special Issue of Sustainability is to build a comprehensive body of knowledge regarding the complexity. This Special Issue calls for papers that address state-of-the-art KM practices in the sharing economy and digital transformations (DTs) in firms. The emphasis of this Special Issue is on how both individual and organizational knowledge can be incorporated into new emerging.

This Special Issue call for papers involving various types of research and practical papers using scientific theories, methods, and research contexts to contribute to KM research communities or practitioners. Submissions focusing on the interactions of technical, behavioral, organizational, and societal aspects of KM are welcomed. We also welcome a variety of methodological papers using qualitative methods, experimental design, modeling, empirical research, qualitative study, or mixed methodological approaches with both qualitative and quantitative methods. Further, regarding the unit of analysis, national-, organizational-, inter-organizational-, social-, and team-level studies are welcomed. Case studies relevant to the real world are warmly encouraged.
